

KnowBrainer Forum History, Instructions & Mission Statement

There were originally a dozen or so Dragon speech recognition forums but the KnowBrainer Forum is the world's last; supporting all editions of Dragon and Dragon related peripherals.

The KnowBrainer Forum membership is comprised of many of the world's most accomplished Dragon users and developers but novices and those who are considering Dragon are also welcomed. After 21 years, the KnowBrainer Forum has collected a massive amount of speech recognition knowledge, combined with unparalleled member support. There is no such thing as a stupid inquiry but when you post a question, remember that the devil is in the details. The more fine points your question includes, the more likely you will receive a qualified response. Please also keep in mind that we are not mind readers. There is almost no such thing as too much information. Some questions may require your computer processor speed, amount of RAM, soundcard and microphone details. Dragon related questions should also include your Dragon edition and version information. Avoid generic terms like "Dragon", DragonDictate and "NaturallySpeaking". Some preferred examples include DMPE 4.3, DPI 15.3 and DPG 15.5.

Although not required, we ask that you fill out your Profile (linked at the top of the forum page) or consider creating a signature tag with your computer specs, sound system and Dragon information to assist members who volunteer their important time to answer member questions. Note that the usual polite forum rules apply (no swearing or flaming) and while politics can be tempting, you should limit your questions and comments to speech recognition, related hardware and related utilities.

This forum is an act of love but purchases from our store pay our hosting fees, forum updates, keep the lights on and feed our 9 rescued disabled cats; 3 are blind & 2 are feral. We also feed the wildlife which consists of turkeys, deer, raccoons, crows and possums. The coyotes and occasionally cougar seem to be pretty good at feeding themselves 😊
